—Considerable fear is created at Steward, this county, over the discovery a few days ago that two children, a son and a daughter of Ole Gunderson, of that place, had small pox. They were attending school and many were exposed.

—Charles E. Fargo, sr., of Chicago, came out yesterday from Chicago with his son, Lee, who will remain here with his brother, Charles E., jr., of North Dixon to learn practically the shoe manufacturing business at the Fargo factory.

—Herman Termollen, of Freeport, met a sudden death in Des Moines, Ia., last Friday night. He was employed as an electrician, and while at work with some companions a live wire fell and struck him. He was riveted to the spot, a corpse in an instant.

—The new rifle which has been adopted in the United States army weighs only eight pounds, and will kill a man at a distance of two miles. With the use of smokeless powder, it is said, a man would be killed before he heard or knew of the report. The bullet is to be made of nickel of steel.

—The meeting of the ladies of St. Patrick's church, which was to have taken place last Friday evening to make arrangements for the coming fair and deferred on account of the storm, will be held at the parish house tomorrow, Wednesday evening. A full attendance of the ladies is requested.

—Miss Lulu Rockwell aged twenty-one years died this morning at 6:30 of consumption at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seth Thomas, 511 Third street. Deceased has a sister in the government employ at Washington, who has been notified. The remains will probably be taken to Clinton, Iowa, for burial.

—Edward McDermon has left at this office for the owner, a lady's shopping bag which he found on the street. The bag is silk and contains more things than a school boy's pocket; a little of everything, in fact, but marbles and chalk. Money, thread, gloves, handkerchief, thimbles, fancy work, etc., etc.

—At a business meeting of Company G, Illinois National Guards, last evening, the following civil officers were elected: Recording Secretary, H. F. Leopold; Financial Secretary, Lieut. Chas. Frisby; Treasurer, Sergt. Judd Potter; Board of Directors, Chairman, Corp. Sherman Frisby; Sergt. Alvin Ramsey, Sergt. Harry Beckingham, Charlie Nye, and Corp. Will Suggett.

—Alfred Chiverton is under police surveillance on account of insane actions at the Colorado restaurant while under the influence of liquor this morning. He seemed inclined to suicide and a pistol and knife were taken from him by force. This is pitiable, inasmuch as Mr. Chiverton is as quiet and modest as any man in the community when sober, and is a much respected business man.

—An exchange aptly asks: "When the breezy bloomers are the universal go, how will tailors press the creases into them, I'd like to know? When the baby's head is nodding and wants to take a nap, how can mamma lull her darling in a bifurcated lap? When the chickens go a grubbing in the garden in the spring, how can Bridget 'shoo' the creatures with no skirts to flap and fling?"

—Chicago papers announce that "Mr. Holly, a millionaire of Dixon," and "owner of the water works" of this city, was robbed of a diamond shirt stud, pair of diamond cuff buttons and other article of jewelry while exercising at a gymnasium; the valuables being taken from his clothing in a locker. Connecting him with the Dixon Water Works leads us to suppose that James A. Hawley is the person robbed.

—Garret Deyo, of Palmyra, covered the bare places in the road from Hughes' corner to the milk factory with snow yesterday, thus showing a commendable degree of public spirit, as well as human consideration for the horses which are driven over the road. Mr. Deyo contemplates removing from Palmyra in the spring, and his neighbors will doubtless be sorry to lose one of their number who is thus actuated by considerations for the public good.

—A college student named Price, boarding at the F. J. Finkler place on College avenue was sick last week from Wednesday until Saturday with what he supposed was the mumps but the physician called late Saturday at once pronounced it the most malignant type of diphtheria. The patient's roommates and visitors have all been sent to their homes and the case quarantined. His mother has arrived to nurse him, but from his condition it is hardly possible that he can recover.

—Since our suggestion to "Snow the bridge," and our criticisms last evening of the stoppage of the work, we have received several communications taking the same view of the matter. We give place to that of Mr. Page of the milk factory as ably voicing the opinions of the others. We were taken to task this morning by one of the aldermen, who denied that the work of snowing the bridge had been stopped by authority, and at the same time said that the council did not propose to use the city funds to cover the bridge with snow. When asked how much more it would have cost to have hauled the snow onto the bridge that was dumped on the river bank, the reply was that they "did not propose to establish a precedent." Well, it seems that they have considered the matter, and established the precedent, and today have made the bridge passable, so we forgive them. Hereafter, we suppose, it will be considered the duty of the city authorities to keep the streets and approaches to the business centre in passable condition at all seasons of the year.

The president says: "With natural resources unlimited in variety and productive strength, and with a people whose activity and enterprise seek only a fair opportunity to achieve national success and greatness, our progress should not be checked by a false financial policy and a heedless disregard of sound monetary laws."

Several other policemen also drew their guns and opened fire on the mob. Stones, bricks and other missiles fell in showers. Several of the police were hit and slightly injured. Michael Maligan, 32 years of age, was dragged from the crowd and taken to the hospital, where he now lies in a precarious condition.

The lack of confidence spoken of is declared to be increasing and grows to some extent out of the palpable and apparent embarrassment attending the policy of the government in dealing with the gold question. To a greater extent out of the impossibility of other keeping it in the treasury or canceling obligations by its expenditure after it is obtained.

During another melee another rioter was shot, but not severely. The day was full of petty riots, but none of a serious nature took place except the two mentioned. The companies declare the fight won and the strikers insist that it is still on.

Gets to the Sub of the Matter. Then the president gets to the pith of things in the following remarks: "The most dangerous and irritating feature of the situation, however, remains to be mentioned. It is found in the means by which the treasury is despoiled of the gold thus obtained, without cancelling a single government obligation and solely for the benefit of those who have no right to it."

OUR FRIENDLY OFFER DECLINED. Mexico is Obedient to Us, but Will Settle With Guatemala Herein. WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The United States has exhausted all proper means of preventing a hostile collision between Mexico and Guatemala and the two countries must settle their dispute without further restraint exercised by the United States. CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—Thomas Hasler, Clyde Mack and William Potter, who are charged with stealing jewelry from the Egyptian room in the Field Columbian Museum, were arraigned before Justice Quinn and had their cases continued until Feb. 3. Hasler is also known to the police by the name of Joseph Scherching. They tried the case open with a "jimmy" and their total steal will not foot up more than $500.

Millions in Gold Withdrawn. Shippers and Boarders Capturing It with the Wily Greenback. The president says that during the year more than $175,000,000 in gold have been drawn out of the treasury for the purpose of shipping abroad or hoarding at home. While nearly $100,000,000 of the same were drawn out during the first ten months of the year a sum aggregating more than two-thirds of that amount, being about $95,000,000, was drawn out during the following two months, thus indicating a marked acceleration of the depletion process with the lapse of time.

Relief Work Well Done. That more were not killed is the miracle that the railway men talk about. President Swan, of the Indiana state university, says the relief which was done by the train crew and passengers was executed with the precision and celerity of a trained relief corps and everything possible was done for the wounded.

Mexico and Guatemala Still Peaceful. CITY OF MEXICO, via Laredo, Jan. 29.—The president and cabinet were in secret session all day and until a late hour last evening, and decline to divulge anything as to the nature of the conference. The only thing known positively is that nothing has yet been decided as to the formulating Mexico's answer to the last note from Guatemala. The government arsenal here is still working day and night.

Deadly "Bob-Sled" at Work. Comes Very Near Providing Some Funerals, but Only Maims a Few. ST. LOUIS, Jan. 29.—A "bob-sled" laden with young people collided with a north-bound Broadway cable car at Bissell street. The sled had gained such terrific velocity as it sped down the hill from the ice water tower that when its "bumper" struck the cable train it knocked the trailer from the track. The force of the contact threw the sled under the car and dumped its terrified occupants. Fortunately the gripman succeeded in stopping the car after it had gone but a few feet further. It was simply miraculous that none of the coasters were killed.

Dr. Berry's Lecture Dr. J. F. Berry, of Chicago, editor of the Epworth Herald, gave a highly interesting lecture last evening to a not very large audience in the M. E. church. His subject was "What a tramp saw in the Emerald Isle," and was a vivid description of a two weeks trip through that small but truly wonderful country. Starting with a realistic picture of the scenes accompanying the departure from New York of the Umbria, on which he was a passenger, he gave a humorous account of how he cured his state-room mate of a soul-harrowing affliction—snoring. He found it true in Ireland, as elsewhere, that the people have less knowledge of the wonderful beauty of their own land than of that of almost any other. Landing at Queenstown, whose magnificent harbor was so large as to furnish abundant anchorage for 600 vessels at one time, he proceeded at once to Cork by way of Ireland's typical conveyance, the jaunting car. Cork was the native city of Father Matthews, and here, surrounding his monument, are the shops of numerous "wine merchants," as they are called; and here whiskey is king. Our traveler put up at the Royal Victoria hotel, and observed that notwithstanding the Irish antipathy to everything saving of English royalty, nearly everything bore the Royal Victoria stamp. The speaker gave a vivid description of his visit to Blarney Castle, which he said was no more like its representative at the Columbian Exposition than the capitol at Washington is like a mud hut. Grand in its ruins, what must it have been in its glory. The sight from the top of its tower, for many miles in every direction, is indescribably beautiful. Sunday morning our traveler was awakened by the chiming of bells from St. Ann's cathedral—the far famed Shannon bells, the effect of which he vividly described, giving in recitation the poem of Father Prout. In the cathedral, whose service our tramp attended, he observed that rich and poor, high and low, refined and coarse, intelligent and ignorant, were thoroughly intermingled, and all appeared to stand upon a common level; an example worthy of imitation by the congregations of many a Protestant church. In the evening he visited the Mall, where street preaching was in progress by some Protestant minister, continuously interrupted, however, by the erratic flight of over-price eggs from the disappearing portion of the audience. The previous Sunday a Baptist preacher had been pelted with stones and carried home in an ambulance; an example not worthy of imitation by Protestant congregations. Out of Cork's population of 80,000, 71,000 are Catholics. Monday morning our tramp and his party set out for the Lakes of Killarney. The lovely scenes of Glengarra were described and declared to be the loveliest spot the speaker ever saw. The roads around the wonderful lakes, wind about the emerald mountains 800 feet above the surface of the crystal waters. Here were the most wonderful echoes perhaps to be found in the world, the voice being returned with perfect distinctness and multiplied a hundred times, until blended into a sort of choral harmony. Here on the road the party were beset with numerous beggars and peddlers of "mountain dew," as their concoction of whiskey and goat-milk was called. At Dunloe is a huge boulder, on which tradition says St. Patrick and his faithful majority met every seventh year in fearful combat. Last year was the year for the conflict. St. Patrick's spirit was promptly at the spot prepared for battle; but the Devil did not come. The great fair was held in Chicago, and he was kept so busy there that he could not fulfill his engagement. "His, and a number of other stories were told by the traveler's guide. Killarney, the greatest of them all, said the speaker, has never been written into fame, as have the Lakes of Scotland and England by Sir Walter Scott and other poets. To Dublin the walk was sixty miles and accomplished in three days, through the heart of a country of unparalleled natural beauty, but amid a peasantry of extreme poverty, some of the causes of which the speaker warmly touched upon. At Tipperary he witnessed one of the proverbial fights in which men and woman and boys and girls with clubs and stones and fists and teeth, took part, making the air resound with curses, shrieks and yells. Half a dozen members of the constabulary witnessed the affray with nonchalant unconcern, and when interrogated as to why they did not stop the fight, replied: "Och, sure, there was no trouble at all; if there had been any signs of disturbance, by the powers, we'd a shotopped it." Of Dublin, her streets, her monuments, her public buildings, her fashion and her squalor, the speaker graphically descanted. Belfast was declared to be more like an American city than any other on the line of his tramp. Of Londonderry and its walls a word picture was given, and a brief historical account of its terrible siege during the war with the Prince of Orange. In conclusion, the speaker spoke eloquently on the Irish question—the question of Ireland's liberty and gave a brief but clear analysis of the character of Parnell, in whose death Ireland lost her great leader and statesman. While there are half a dozen aspirants for leadership, each leading a faction, Parnell left no successor, and Ireland's cause languishes; but the speaker in his concluding sentences foreshadowed the time when Ireland will shake herself free from all the shackles that now bind her, bodily, mentally, and spiritually; and her crushed and downtrodden peasantry will become a free and happy people. Circuit Court. At the completion of the argument in the Meyer case on Saturday afternoon the jury were instructed by the court and retired. Court then adjourned until Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. At six o'clock Saturday evening the jury came to an agreement and sealed their verdict. Monday afternoon court opened pursuant to adjournment. The jury in the Meyer case came in to court and presented the following verdict: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty, and we assess the plaintiff's damages against the defendant as fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000)." The verdict was filed and the jury discharged from this case. The defendant entered a motion for a new trial. The defendants in the case of the People vs. Fredorf, Smith and Rogers, indicted for receiving stolen property were arraigned in open court and entered a plea of not guilty; thereupon the following jury was selected to try the issues of the case: Nelson Powell, Walter Ivan, Wm. B. McMahon, Louis Stephan, H. E. Senn, J. W. Gline, Antoine Helmer, Francis Gallasath, William H. Clatworthy, Frank Arnold, Fred Weiss and J. G. Beldges. The case was conducted by Charles B. Morrison, states attorney, for the plaintiff, and H. L. Coffey, attorney for the defendants. After the case was stated by counsel the following witnesses were examined on the part of the plaintiff: John R. Stuart, Geo. L. Richardson, Wm. Dix, Chas. Dix, Wallace Hicks, H. C. Hanson, Mr. Stultz and Geo. F. Stainbrook. Court then adjourned until morning, and by agreement of the parties the jury were allowed to separate till the opening of court. At nine o'clock this morning court opened and the trial was resumed. August Kohl, Michael McGowan, Josiah L. Gray and Walter Mason were examined for the plaintiff, and the defendant's witnesses were as follows: John Wedlock, — Smith, George Ulrich, Henry Hillison, Andrew Reinhardt, Robert Cook, Christiana Gross, — Beadle, Henry Gross, George Meister, D. B. Ayres, C. M. Huguert and S. O. Arzavars. Motion was made on the part of the People for continuance in the case of People vs. Zoeller, for assault with intent to murder. Court adjourned until afternoon. Cruelty to Horses Friday's snow storm has proven that in the horse, man's greatest friend, really has no friend in man. There is a certain kind of teaming that has to be done. The milk factory is one that has to run every day, as the cow does not stop giving milk on account of snow storms. Both the factory and the farmer pay taxes when called upon to do so, but in turn, if they call on the street committee or the road commissioner to make roads passable in the winter, they get nothing done. It was possible to do the snow storm; but our street committee moved the snow away from the stores to the injury of the street traffic with wagons. Still they will not put one-half inch of snow on the bridge; neither have our highway commissioners attempted to remove snow drifts in the country roads. I hold that it is the duty of such officers to see that our street and roads are made passable in the winter as well as in the summer, and I think it is the duty of the voters of Dixon and Dixon township to fill these offices with men who will get out in the winter and see that our streets and roads are put in good condition immediately after each snow storm. W. B. PAGE. Scabby Potatoes The agricultural experiment station at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., devoted some time to experimenting with the disease last season and the result may be of interest to growers of potatoes in this section. The report says: "From the nature of the disease it is evident that scabby seed potatoes will, under favorable conditions cause the disease to develop in the new growth in any kind of soil, hence in selecting potatoes for planting it becomes an important matter to select only such tubers as are apparently free from the disease as is shown by the absence of the roughened surface. But even these may contain germs of the disease, if they have been brought in contact with diseased tubers, hence it is well to treat the 'seed' with some fungicide before planting. Corrosive sublimate has been found to be the most effective substance for this purpose, while the Booleaux mixture also answers fairly well. The corrosive sublimate is used by dissolving two ounces in two gallons of hot water if wanted for immediate use, after which pour the solution into a wooden vessel (never use metal) containing fourteen gallons of water. If only small quantities are planted, place the potatoes in a coarse sack and immerse them in this solution, leaving them from two to two and a half hours, after which take them out and allow them to dry when they will be ready for planting. If more than ten or twelve bushels are to be treated, add more of the corrosive sublimate and water to correspond. The writer has also had fairly good results by soaking the potatoes in a Bordeaux mixture, viz: six pounds copper sulphate, four pounds quick lime and thirty-five gallons of water. It has also been demonstrated that the soil on which scabby potatoes have been grown may retain the spores in the soil in an active condition for several years, so that it is very important that potatoes if affected should not be grown on the same soil continuously, but that rotation of crops, and preferably a five year rotation, should be practiced in order to secure the best results. From Sublette. I. M. Crawford, wife and daughter, Miss Ethel, of the Columbian restaurant, Dixon, were here Monday afternoon, at the burial of Mrs. Crawford's mother, Mrs. Juliette Smith, widow of Luke Smith. They formerly lived near West Brooklyn. He was buried in the Potomac cemetery about twenty-six years ago, and she has resided in Mendota since. She was well spoken of by her acquaintances. One son and several relatives, whose names I did not learn were present. J. B. B. A Broken Arm Allen J. McDougal, the electrician at the Dixon Power & Lighting Co's plant is suffering from a painful injury. Last night after seven o'clock while at work on a shaft his right arm was struck near the elbow by a clutch on a rope pulley and a compound comminuted fracture was caused. He was taken to the office of Dr. Wynn & Payne where the bones were set as well as possible but it will be a long time before he has the use of the member. February Temperature and Rain Foster's forecasts: On the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, upper and lower lakes and in the Ohio valley, the temperature of February will average below and the rainfall about normal. In Texas, Mississippi and Missouri valleys, the temperature will average above and the rainfall about or below normal. My forecasts of temperature and rainfall for December, similar to the above, based on discoveries made in 1892 and partially worked out since, proved 90 per cent correct. I cannot expect to keep up that average, however, till the calculations are completed. The principal force of storm features of February will probably be: First half of month warmer than last half, warmest part of month just preceding the storm wave to cross continent from 6th to 11th; coldest cold wave following this storm and the one to cross will be best ice weather in Northern states except a day or two at beginning of the month. Will give details of the spring growth in next bulletin. From Steward. G. F. Henning was in Milwaukee Tuesday. Mrs. S. J. Bowles is recovering after a severe illness. Rev.
